The Division of Pediatric Hematology Oncology and Daltrey Townshend Teen and Young Adult Cancer Program present
A Catalyst Symposium on

Acute Lymphoblastic Leukemia in Adolescents and Young Adults: The Next Generation of Care

Friday, October 20, 2017
7:30AM to 1:00PM
UCLA Luskin Conference Center

7:00AM  Continental Breakfast, Plateia Restaurant
7:30AM  Check-in
8:00AM  Introduction by Jacqueline Casillas, M.D., Medical Director, Daltrey Townshend Teen and Young Adult Cancer Program
8:15AM  Julie A. Wolfson, M.D., M.S.H.S.
         “Disparities in Adolescents and Young Adults with Cancer”
9:00AM  Dan Douer, M.D.
         “Intensive Asparaginase is a Critical and Safe Component in the Contemporary Treatment of Adult Acute Lymphoblastic Leukemia”
9:45AM  Break
10:00AM Gary Schiller, M.D.
        “CAR T-cell Therapy for Acute Lymphoblastic Leukemia: Opportunities and Challenges”
10:45AM Michael J. Burke, M.D.
        “Moving to the Age of Personalized Medicine: The COG Experience”
11:30AM Panel Discussion moderated by Jacqueline Casillas, M.D.
12:00PM Lunch

The symposium will be videocast at the CTSI Partner institutions:
LA Biomed/ Harbor-UCLA Medical Center
Cedars-Sinai Medical Center
Charles R. Drew University of Medicine and Science

Support for this Symposium is generously provided by: